DESCLAUX DEFENCE

Paris, Feb. 1.—M. Labori, the advocate, has informed François Desclaux, general paymaster of the army, that it will be impossible for him to take charge of the defence of Desclaux before the court martial which is to try him on a charge of stealing military stores.

M. Labori said he had accepted the task of defending Desclaux when the case appeared to be a purely judicial one. Since then, he added, Desclaux had been the subject of newspaper polemics because he was a witness for Mme, Caillaux, wife of the former Minister of Finance, who was charged with the murder of M. Calmette, editor of "Le Figaro," and as he had been assigned some of the enemy's cannon. The Russian frontier in tens of thousands.
